Transformative Technologies. Inspired Innovators. Global Impact.

In 1962, CACI began delivering innovative solutions and services to meet our nation's most pressing challenges.

We are thought leaders who apply our creativity and technological prowess to delivering sustained value to defense, intelligence, and federal civilian customers. Our success is built on a vibrant culture of ethics and integrity - what we call good character. We are committed to enabling our customers to safeguard our nation from global threats and more efficiently provide quality government services.

CACI continues to execute on a three-part strategy to win new business, deliver operational excellence, and deploy our capital for long-term growth opportunities. We are succeeding in winning larger, more solutions-oriented business that enhances our capability to meet our customers' enduring and emerging needs. We will continue to provide innovative, creative, and valuable solutions and services to make our customers mission-ready, efficient, and successful in all they do.

As part of our strategy to deliver excellence in support of customers, we earned enterprise-wide ISO 27001 certification this year for our enterprise information systems and information security policies and practices. This credential demonstrates our commitment to safeguarding our customers' critical data at a time when protecting information is of increasing importance to the U.S. government. We also repeated our listing in The Washington Post's 2017 Top Workplaces in the greater Washington, DC area, our third consecutive year garnering this accolade. We were further recognized as a Top Workplace for the second year in a row in Memphis, Tennessee, and earned our first Top Workplace listing in Austin, Texas. These achievements underscore the value we place on giving our employees the opportunities to succeed in supporting critical national security missions.

Our accomplishments over the last year are built on our dedication to innovation and good character. We always strive to uphold the highest standards of ethics and integrity. We foster mutual respect for our employees, partners, and customers while investing in the ingenuity of our talented workforce. We are ever vigilant in serving our customers and our country, and in providing our shareholders with long-term value.

To Our Fellow CACI SHAREHOLDERS

Delivering Value in Fiscal Year 2017. This year, we continued to benefit from the execution of our market-based strategy and from synergies resulting from the National Security Solutions (NSS) acquisition. We deepened customer relationships, captured market share, returned to organic growth, and set records for revenue, cash generated, and awards won. We did this while our primary customer, the United States government, operated under constrained funding for over half of our fiscal year. These accomplishments demonstrate the strength of our consistent, successful implementation of our strategy to win new business, drive operational excellence, and invest our capital for future growth.

We continued to demonstrate the strategic value of our mergers and acquisitions program. Key to our growth this fiscal year was the exceptional financial performance of NSS. As a result of new business won with the capabilities gained from NSS, and building on the groundwork laid by the talented professionals who joined us in our FY14 acquisition of Six3 Systems, we have established a position in Space Operations and Resiliency, our newest market area.

In focusing our pursuit of business in the space market, we are applying our proven expertise in cyber and space operations to assist customers in mitigating the risks associated with launching, maintaining, and defending assets both in space and on the ground. Our delivery of high-end capabilities in this domain will improve decision-making and enhance enterprise space operations, an area in which the government is investing heavily as critical to the national security of the United States.

We won a record amount of awards in FY17, including important new business and larger, more complex solutions work, which is at the very heart of our long-term strategy.

One of those contracts – a $1.77 billion, five-year award in support of the Joint Improvised-Threat Defeat Organization (JIDO) – is the largest award ever received by CACI.

In addition, we continued to deliver outstanding customer service, winning a significant amount of key and critical re-competed business.

As a result of generating a record amount of operating cash during FY17, and while we continue to explore acquisitions that are the best business and cultural fit for us, we have reduced debt and de-levered our balance sheet. The reduction of our debt levels provides us with the additional capacity to invest in our company by making strategic acquisitions that will bring us new capabilities and customers and support our long-term growth strategy.

Our United Kingdom operations recorded another year of solid financial performance. We successfully delivered the 2016 Irish Census Project and acquired the “big data” business of Kognitio Ltd., which will enable us to help our large corporate customers to make better-informed business decisions. These major accomplishments continue to enhance our competitive position as a market-leading provider of information technology services and products in the UK.

As we entered FY18, our forward indicators were strong. Our funded backlog was $1.9 billion and our total backlog was $11.2 billion. Almost 94 percent of our planned revenue for FY18 comes from contracts on which we currently perform. In addition, we had over $15 billion in submitted proposals under evaluation, with almost 90 percent being new business to CACI.

Last year, we articulated our vision of strategically positioning our company to win larger and more enduring contracts and to increase the solutions content of our business. With that vision, we established long-term goals of growing our organic revenue one to four percent above that of our addressable market and increasing our margins 10 to 30 basis points annually over the next several years. Our expectations for FY18 meet those goals.

The priorities of the new administration for increased national security spending, border protection, space resiliency, and evolving and persistent cyber requirements align very well with CACI’s position in the marketplace.

Our market-focused strategy is driving the development and pursuit of mission-oriented solutions, and puts us in an ideal position as our nation invests in these critical areas. Moreover, we believe we have very little exposure to agencies that may be potential billpayers for these stated funding priorities.

We do expect increases in defense and intelligence spending, but we believe that they will happen over a slightly longer term with only modest budget growth over the next year or two. We also expect that our addressable market will see increases beginning over the longer term as the government invests in additional capabilities.

In order to accelerate our growth in this marketplace and achieve our long-term goals, we have separated the responsibilities of Chief Operating Officer (COO) and President of U.S. Operations. John Mengucci has assumed the role of COO and, with that, the oversight of many of the company's corporate functions, including business development and mergers and acquisitions. Assuming the role of President of U.S. Operations is DeEtte Gray, a talented industry veteran who comes to CACI with over 20 years of experience supporting information technology, cyber security, and intelligence customers. With the changes we see taking place in the federal market, we believe this is the time to invest in a more aggressive growth strategy with these two accomplished leaders.

We are working every day to differentiate CACI through the people we hire, the business we pursue, and the solutions we deliver. Our market-based strategy is working. We are winning new business, delivering operational excellence, and deploying our capital to drive additional growth. We have the organization, people, processes, credentials, and technical expertise to provide transformative solutions, quality, and value to our customers. We remain very confident in our ability to deliver predictable, profitable growth and enhanced shareholder value in FY18 and beyond.

We'd like to thank all CACI employees for their continued commitment to integrity, character, and the mission of our customers.

They bring incredible talent to our customers' most complex challenges each day. Our success as a company is a result of their daily efforts. We also thank you, our fellow shareholders, for your continued support.

INNOVATING

to Address National Security Imperatives

Seizing Growth Potential in Intelligence Solutions

The United States faces adversaries ranging from peer-state aggressors to cyber criminals to terrorist organizations. Military and defense agencies must contend with increased speed, complexity, and competition across battle environments. CACI answers these national imperatives with agile intelligence systems, big data analytics, and high-end tools that fuse information from hundreds of data sources to keep national security leaders ahead of myriad threats.

Our intelligence experts deliver valuable solutions in counterintelligence, tradecraft, linguistics, and geospatial intelligence, as well as highly specialized full-motion video expertise. To make sense of today's profusion of data, we deploy innovative deep learning algorithms into our analytic tools, enabling decision-makers to address our nation's most complex worldwide missions.

This year, our capability to deliver sustained value, efficiency, and innovation to our intelligence customers was a driving force in winning the largest award in our history. On this contract, we will provide sophisticated intelligence fusion technologies to the Joint Improvised-Threat Defeat Organization (JIDO). Our support enables combatant commands to stay ahead of complex and growing threats.

Dominating the Cyber and Electronic Warfare Markets

Today's battlefield is amplified by cyber and electronic warfare, making electromagnetic spectrum (EMS) dominance another national imperative. Backed by decades of specialized experience in digital and foreign instrumentation signals processing, our full-spectrum cyber and electronic warfare specialists pioneer solutions for military and intelligence customers to safeguard the country's networks, bolster our national infrastructure, and strengthen America's posture in the EMS battlespace.

CACI is at the forefront of platform cyber solutions to protect military aircraft, ships, and weapons systems against cyber attack. We also lead the way in addressing the escalating use of unmanned platforms with our SkyTracker™ system to counter commercial drone threats to national airspace and valuable assets.

Expanding in the Space Domain

Along with cyber, this year CACI moved further into the space market by winning significant new business providing operations, maintenance, and sustainment solutions and services for the U.S. Air Force Satellite Control Network. Our support will enhance operational reliability and innovation in the increasingly contested space environment, which is key to America's security. This new work, together with the JIDO award, reflects CACI's impressive capability to win enduring business and capture market share.

We meet the national security need for high-end intelligence solutions that enable complex missions, including counterterrorism.

ADVANCING TECHNOLOGIES

to Improve Delivery of Government Services

Sustaining Delivery of Value and Efficiencies

Federal agencies are seeking new ways to improve government services. CACI responds with insight and innovation to modernize the enterprise financial, administrative, material, and personnel systems that keep government running. Recent accomplishments include our implementation of what will be the world's largest personnel and pay system for the U.S. Army, as well as our web-based supply chain management solution to help the U.S. Department of Agriculture deliver food and nutrition programs at home and abroad. These programs reflect CACI's proven capability to win business supporting large programs that meet enduring, high-priority customer needs.

As the government pursues more streamlined ways to operate, it turns to CACI's functional expertise and technological ingenuity to enable efficiencies and cost-savings. Recently, there has been a federal push to adopt shared services, in which a single system is utilized by numerous agencies. CACI's enterprise resource planning experts leverage experience implementing federal systems, industry partnerships, and a successful track record of deployments to seamlessly transition federal civilian, defense, and intelligence customers to shared service environments that foster productivity and incorporate the latest technologies.

Our cutting-edge enterprise IT solutions position us to win next-generation programs across the federal marketplace.

We drive value and efficiencies supporting the government's enduring mission to enhance services that have a global impact.

Meeting Demands for New Technologies

We also keep customers at the forefront of next-generation IT with cloud-powered capabilities, software-defined networking, automation, and performance-based service management. For example, as our government seeks efficiencies from the cloud, we are leveraging our selection for the Amazon Web Services Public Sector Partner Program to provide customers with secure cloud solutions that enable continuous improvements.

Furthermore, as the national security community calls for rapid fielding of capabilities, our enterprise agile methodology brings customers into the development process and leverages automation to quickly deliver the systems our troops need to deal with dynamic, fast-paced threat environments.

CACI provides innovative solutions and technologies that enable customers to address challenging national security issues and deliver government services more efficiently and economically. Our capabilities align with our customers' enduring and emerging needs and provide a solid structure for continued and future growth that leads to greater market share, increased profitability, and the generation of capital to invest in our company and create long-term shareholder value.

Innovation to Support UK Government and Industry

CACI's UK operations reported a record year for revenue and net income. We delivered innovation for the 2016 Irish Census with an optical character recognition system to capture data from over five million census forms. We also advanced our strategic vision by acquiring the big data and managed services business of Kognitio Ltd., which efficiently analyzes vast data sets to enable such large corporations as British Telecom to make better-informed business decisions.

We significantly grew our Dutch business to encompass over 50 percent of the market share for student information systems. A majority of higher education students in the Netherlands now use our proprietary student information system, OSIRIS.
