Capital Senior Living

Capital Senior Living Corporation 2003 Summary Annual Report

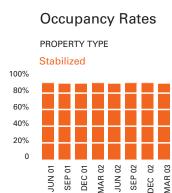

At Capital Senior Living, we provide communities where seniors love to live.

With 42 communities in 20 states, we are one of the nation's largest operators of residential communities for senior adults. From coast to coast, all our communities have the amenities that help seniors get the most out of their lives. To provide such quality, well-run communities, we strive to be a quality, well-run company. We celebrated our 14th year of senior living operations in 2003. With experienced management in place and a proven long-term strategy in effect, we look forward to serving our seniors for years to come.

At Capital Senior Living, we believe seniors deserve well-built, well-run, well-located communities that are affordable and enjoyable. Our communities typically offer qualityof-life amenities such as restaurant-style dining, fitness center/exercise rooms and wellness programs, 24-hour staffing, scheduled transportation, housekeeping and linen services, libraries with computer access, and a wide array of social and recreational activities.

Population Age 75+ Population Age 85+ To meet the demand for quality senior living for years to come, Capital Senior Living will continue to pursue our proven strategies of focusing primarily on independent living facilities, maximizing occupancy at our existing properties and pursuing new opportunities through selective acquisitions and management contracts.

In choosing the location of its communities across the country, Capital Senior Living studies demographic information that helps us give our seniors a home that is convenient for visits from their adult children and, of course, grandchildren.

IN America

Capital Senior Living operates 42 residence communities in 20 states, with purpose built properties for nearly 7,000 seniors. This national presence provides a solid platform for growth through acquisitions and management contracts.

To our fellow shareholders:

Capital Senior Living Corporation celebrated a year percent assisted living. The communities, which of significant accomplishment in 2003 which was generated approximately $21 million of revenue in highlighted by continued momentum in the lease-up 2003, are still in lease-up phase, providing the basis for rates of our communities. Sale, Manage-back of Atrium of Carmichael. In September 2003, we completed the sale of our Atrium of Carmichael community in Sacramento, California, to a fund managed by Prudential Real Estate Investors for $11.7 million, resulting in a gain of over nine cents per share. We continue to manage the property under a long-term contract.

The sale of the property provided additional liquidity, enabled us to retire $7.4 million of debt and reduced our average borrowing costs.

Retired Debt. An important part of our business strategy has been to retire debt. Overall in 2003, we were able to repay approximately $34 million in debt, and from the proceeds of our stock offering in early 2004, repaid close to another $14 million. Retiring this debt strengthens our balance sheet, provides flexibility in our capital structure and is an important factor as we look toward future growth through joint venture investments and acquisitions.

Operating Results

Our 2003 business plan called for increasing revenues, maintaining our focus on the lease-up of our recently built communities, sustaining the high occupancy rate of our stabilized properties, and ensuring our operating margins remained above the industry average. With the capable leadership of our senior management team, which has nearly 150 years of combined industry experience, we successfully accomplished each of these critical objectives.

Revenues. Our 2003 revenues increased 7.9 percent to $66.3 million from $61.5 million in 2002. Resident revenue in all 42 communities we own and/or manage increased about 13 percent to approximately $122 million in 2003 compared to $109 million in 2002. The revenue growth resulted primarily from increasing occupancy rates in our newly developed properties as they continue their lease-up as well as rate increases in our stabilized properties.

Occupancy Rates. During 2003, the occupancy rate on owned and/or managed stabilized communities was an average of 91 percent. This is higher than the industry average occupancy rates of 89 percent in independent living communities and 84 percent in assisted living facilities. At year-end, our leased-to rate for newly opened communities increased to 85 percent from 70 percent at the beginning of the year. These high occupancy rates are indicative of the demand for the attractive, well-managed, guality communities that Capital Senior Living owns and/or operates.

Operating Margins. As we have for several years, Capital Senior Living reported some of the best operating margins in our industry. Our 2003 operating margins on stabilized communities of 47 percent exceeded the industry averages of approximately 43 percent for independent living and 39 percent for assisted living communities. We are able to maintain these operating margins while providing affordable, well-run communities because of our experience in the industry and the strength of our management team. This allows us to provide desirable senior living facilities while closely controlling our operating expenses.

Industry Dynamics

The demographic that we serve, people aged 75 years or older, is the fastest-growing segment of our nation's population, with the 85-plus age group expected to grow nearly 40 percent this decade. Further, the demand for independent living senior housing, which is our principal focus, is expected to outpace both assisted living and skilled nursing.

Supply and demand for senior living facilities appears Second, even though we are principally focused on to be stabilizing. Construction of new senior living units independent living, we believe in a continuum of care peaked in 1999, and then experienced a dramatic philosophy. Therefore, about 14 percent of our decline, with 67 percent fewer new units constructed residents take advantage of our assisted living services in 2002 than in 1999. After three straight years of decline, and continuing care, retirement communities. This there was a small increase in new development during allows our residents to remain in their community 2003. The majority of new construction built during while having access to additional services as they age. 1997 through 2003 was for assisted living facilities, This continuum of care philosophy also allows rather than for independent living communities. We residents to join our communities at a younger age therefore believe that the demand for our properties and stay with us for a longer period of time compared should increase faster than the industry average. to facilities that only offer a single level of service.

There continues to be consolidation in the industry. Third, we believe that senior housing, particularly in Within this consolidation we see opportunity to the private-pay sector in which we operate, must be leverage our strengths. We know that seniors desire well-appointed communities and larger apartment units with amenities like kitchens and walk-in closets. They also appreciate the services we offer, including meals, housekeeping, linen service, transportation and an extensive range of activities.

"In the long term, we believe demographics and industry dynamics will fuel our growth for many years to come."

Fifth, and importantly, we have a long-term strategy that has been validated and will continue to be driven by demographics demanding quality, affordable, independent senior living communities. And we have an exceptional, experienced management team that has proven its ability to successfully execute this strategy.

Going Forward

As we look toward the future, we believe it is promising. Our experience and strategy have permitted us not only to survive, but to be successful during a period in which many senior living operators failed. Now, as the industry is stabilizing and the economy shows signs of improving, we have emerged with a stronger balance sheet, prepared to take advantage of the opportunities we see before us.

In the short term, we see organic growth through continued lease-up of our newly developed properties. Additive to this will be revenue growth derived from increasing lease rates to market levels, as properties that were opened during extremely competitive environments stabilize. We are in a financial position, through our joint ventures and because of our strengthened balance sheet, to pursue acquisitions that fit within our operating philosophy and our regional structure. And we will continue to pursue management contracts that fit within our strength as an experienced and successful operator.

In the long term, we believe demographics and industry dynamics will fuel our growth for many years to come. We offer desirable, affordable independent senior housing – the industry segment that is expected to be in the greatest demand and which has experienced the least amount of new construction.

This future outlook would not be possible without our shareholders, our Board of Directors, management team and employees, as well as our residents and their families. Thank you for your continued support.

Sincerely,

James B. Stroud
